

A layer of near surface facets was propagating in stability tests on an east facing slope in Beehive Basin. It's worth digging and looking for this layer before committing to steeper slopes. Photo GNFAAC

Advisory Region
Northern Madison
Northern Madison, 2017-02-11